Cable TV Ruling Could Cost Town $40,000 In Revenue

By Susan K. O'Neill

The town of Andover stands to lose more than $40,000 this year in tax revenues from cable T.V. companies because of a recent decision by the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, says tax assessor William H. Russell. The decision, handed down on Nov. 18, upholds an older law which holds that communication lines, placed on public property, are exempt from municipal property taxation.

"It has a dramatic effect on Andover," said Russell of the court's decision. "There's probably $40,000 to $45,000 at stake here." The ruling only covers lines on public property; privately-owned lands are still taxable. "Of course," added Russell, "That doesn't amount to much, compared to the miles and miles of cable laid on public property."

The court action results from a suit, Warner Amex Cable Communications, Inc. v. the Board of Assessors, Everett, Mass., in which a cable company challenged a 1984 Appellate Tax Board ruling permitting towns to tax cable laid through public lands. According to Tom Steel, Vice President and General Counsel for the New England Cable Television Association (NECTA), which is headquartered in Braintree, the properties in question had been protected since 1947 by a law exempting communication-related lines, poles and cables on public ways from taxation.

"It's always been the law," said Steel. "It had continued that way for 37 years until 1984—then, suddenly, we were no longer able to claim the exemption." The recent Supreme Court decision, he explained, "just says that the 1947 law still applies."

Since the day it was handed down, said Steel, the 1984 ruling has been under legal attack by cable companies and NECTA. "Any time you challenge a tax," he explained, "you still have to pay 80 percent of the tax while waiting for the ruling." So NECTA members paid as they fought. According to Steel, the companies might be able to recover these past revenues under the court action, unless municipalities find some alternative method to retain them. "I never underestimate the creativity of assessors," he said.

According to Russell, Andover has been collecting taxes from Rollins Cable-Vision since 1984. That year, he said, the company underwent a partial valuation

Students In District Concert

Music will dominate the news at Gloucester High School as it hosts the annual Northeastern District Concert on Saturday, Jan. 18.

The concert is sponsored by the Massachusetts Music Educators Association Northeastern District which includes high school students from public and private schools.

The purpose of the Senior District Concert is to serve as an enrichment opportunity and to provide the highest caliber of musical experience. Following an audition, the most proficient of music students are grouped into four performing musical organizations: orchestra, chorus, band and jazz ensemble. The students rehearse with guest conductors from the collegiate and professional level. The music is more difficult and sophisticated than can be performed in the student's individual music setting.

Participation in the District Festival Concert is a special musical experience.

Representing Andover High School are: Band, Kathy Malone, alto clarinet, grade 12; Lisa Oberst, clarinet, grade 12.

Jazz Band, Greg DeVoir, alto sax, grade 10; Steve DeVoir, trumpet, grade 10; Sam Gaylord, trumpet, grade 11.

Orchestra: Edmund Brylczyk, grade 10.

Chorus: Darrin Currier, grade 12; Shorey Walker, grade 10.

Bridging The Generation Gap

By Jean Oppel

We have all heard much about the generation gap in recent years. However, the Andover Adult Day Care Program seems to have bridged it, thanks to so many nice young people in our community.

On Halloween the preschoolers from St. Augustine's enrichment program came to our center to entertain us with songs and poems and an array of costumes from Rainbow Bright to Satan himself. It was a delightful afternoon and we are really looking forward to returning the visit during the coming holidays.

The children of Sanborn School invited the day care participants to share in the Harvest Festival on Thursday, Nov. 21, and another wonderful time awaited us. The children had assembled food, plants and cards to deliver to elderly residents in the next few days and they entertained us with songs, poems, a trumpet solo and, of course, refreshments. The fifth grade students served as our greeters and saw to our comfort and enjoyment in a very grown-up fashion. We were impressed with their lovely manners, cordiality and conversation and inspired by their warm sentiments for doing for others at this Thanksgiving season. The Sanborn School sixth grade class visited the center on Friday for the benefit of those day care participants who could not attend Thursday's festivities.

Now we are looking forward to planning to entertain the Special Needs class of Doherty School once again with our Christmas play and party and to a visit on Monday, Nov. 25, from the Andover Early Childhood Day Care. Since we are both "Andover Day Care," there is frequently confusion with each other's mail and phone calls. But, while we are years apart in age, we're sure we'll find we have more in common than just a similarity of program titles.

We are thankful to all these wonderful children who have brightened many hours for us. What's a generation gap? Don't ask us.

Local Residents Pedal For Lung Association

Ted Moreland and John Cormier of Andover were honored at a Winners Circle reception at the John Hancock Observatory on November 17 for their fund-raising efforts on behalf of the American Lung Association of Essex County.

Moreland raised more than $800 and Cormier raised more than $500 while participating in the 1985 Autumn Escape Bike Trek, a three-day, 145 mile bicycling adventure on Cape Code. All trekkers raising $500 were invited to the Winners Circle.

Thirty-six enthusiasts cycled, raising more than $18,000 to help support lung association programs. Joining Moreland on the trek were Pat Shellnutt of North Andover and Tom Glynn of Andover.

As the third highest fundraiser in Essex County, Moreland received $25 worth of services at Great Impressions in Beverly. The top individual fundraiser in Essex County was John Bochynski of Marblehead who raised more than $1,300 and was awarded a microwave oven, donated by Raytheon Company, Andover. Russ Emerson of Georgetown raised $1,000 and received dinner for two, donated by Jake Cassidys of Marblehead.

All Winners Circle members will have their names placed on a plaque displayed at the lung association office.

The American Lung Association of Essex County, located in Topsfield, is a nonprofit, voluntary health agency supported primarily through Christmas Seal donations.

Volunteers Needed For Olympics

Essex County Special Olympics is recruiting volunteers to assist with the up-coming program year. Essex County's goal is to continue to make available appropriate quality, year-round sports training in all official sports to each Special Olympic athlete. Sports training provides athletes with an opportunity to steadily improve their sports skills, competitive ability and, ultimately, their ability to more actively participate in their communities.

Volunteer opportunities include coaching, chaperoning, officiating games and events, administrative duties and fundraising. The county geographic area includes Lynn, Danvers, Lawrence, Andover, Peabody, Salem, Amesbury, Haverhill, Newburyport and Gloucester.

Special Olympic athletes train at their local level before moving on to county and state competition. Sports training is offered in softball, basketball, floor hockey, volleyball and junior soccer; individual competitive sports include swimming, athletics, speed and figure skating, alpine and nordic skiing, gymnastics, bowling, cycling and equestrian.

Essex County Special Olympics will conduct 11 events this year under the titles of Fall Festival, Figure Skating Seminar for Volunteer Coaches, Eastern Massachusetts Alpine Skiing Invitational, Essex County Winter Games, Candlepin Bowling Tournament, Basketball Skills Competition, Athletic Training for Coaches, Developmental Sports Festival, Essex County Swim Meet, Essex County Track and Field Meet and a Junior Soccer Tournament.

Essex County Special Olympic athletes will qualify for the Massachusetts Special Olympic state-wide events by competing at the county level. The Massachusetts Special Olympics is led by Ken Hodge, former Boston Bruin, and the organization sponsors five state-wide events per year.

The Essex County Special Olympic effort is led by Bernie Pierce and Leon Seymour, both appointed by the Mass. Special Olympic office. Seymour is the program coordinator for Essex County, responsible for overseeing training, registration events, coaches and competition of Special Olympic athletes. Pierce is the area coordinator for Essex County, responsible for building an area development committee, fundraising, budget and public relations.

Former Resident Captures Life On Vineyard In First Book

By Susan K. O'Neill

There lives, on the northwestern coast of Martha's Vineyard, a Granny. Not any ordinary Granny, but one who wears cat-tans to hide the effects of her passion for Elberta Peach Ice Cream. One who, it seems, dances around her living room to Reggae music—but only when no one is around to see her.

Perhaps the most remarkable thing of all about this Granny is that—after more than ten years of wandering her adopted island with a tape recorder, digging through microfilms and old photographs, and navigating the murky waters of the publication world—she has produced quite a book.

"The Magic Sea Glass of West Chop," written by former Andoverite Constance Fuller Sanborn, is a pedestrian history of the summer community located at the entrance to Vineyard Haven Harbor on Martha's Vineyard. Drawn from oral accounts, personal journals, and newspapers published in the late 1800's to the mid-1900's, the book is a wry blend of local legend, reminiscence and small, personal moments of history caught on film. Finished in September of 1984, it has survived a bumpy year of production to take its place—at last, to the relief of the author—on the shelves of Limited Editions, at 93 Main St. in Andover.

"Granny" Sanborn, herself a character in the book, wrote her history for other grandparents (and, as the copy on the back of the softcover edition notes, "their children and grandchildren, and anyone else interested in Martha's Vineyard as it was"). Appropriately, she has dedicated "The Magic Sea Glass of West Chop" to the memory of her own grandmother, Constance Greenough Fuller.

It was Constance Fuller—whose husband, Sam, gave Phillips Academy its bell tower in the 1920s—who introduced her granddaughter to the summer community of West Chop in 1938, when Sanborn was 12. That first visit began a long stretch of summer life on Martha's Vineyard for Sanborn, which eventually led to her move from Andover, where she'd spent 12 years, to the island as a full-time resident in 1970.

"I moved down to the island 15 years ago to be with my grandmother full-time." The voice on the phone is full and vital, and sounds far younger than Constance Sanborn's 59 years. It is a good connection; Vineyard Haven might be next door. "She lived there year-round after Sam's fishing accident in 1959. I was with her at her death in 1974. Two of my three grown children are living here with their families."

Whoa; back up. Fishing accident? "My grandfather's habit was to take a mystery book with him." The voice warms to its task; the story-teller has taken over. Rough weather; a sudden wave. "He went over the side with his hat, chair, fishing gear, mystery book, everything," she says. After going down—"He said he saw a door down there and tried it, but it wouldn't open—" Sam Fuller came up and was hit by the boat's propeller.

According to local legend, Sanborn's grandfather ate a dozen clams on the half shell while waiting for the ambulance. As white-robed attendants wheeled him into surgery, he asked—so the story goes—for a meal. "He told them he'd already had his appetizer," explains Sanborn.

Her grandfather lived on for four more years, but "he wasn't able to go back to New York."

It is a digression, and it's not in the book. But "Magic Sea Glass" is a bound volume of just such digressions, and Sanborn does well with them. She shows a sense of humor that is—well, loving. She enjoys the good island doctor who periodically had to climb his own telephone pole to repair his lines so his patients' calls could come through; if she could, Sanborn would probably shinny up there with him and hand him his tools. Softened by the rosy glow of memory, the rum-runners do not frighten her. She eavesdrops through the canvas tents of the prayer meetings, and "oh, my's" at the price of swordfish in 1931 (38 cents per pound).

At 59, Sanborn herself could not provide most of the memories that make up "Magic Sea Glass." Her grandmother was her inspiration and her first source of material. "She had a scrapbook," she says. "That's what got me started." To add to her family-based material, she shouldered her recorder and set out to collect the island on tape.

She knocked on doors, recording anyone who would talk with her about the "old days." Old people reminisced; summer folk dug into their memories. Indians spoke into the microphone, as did "natives" with deep island roots. In all, over a period of 13 years, Sanborn collected more than 100 tapes of oral history. "I had to be merciless about editing out material for the book," she says, regret softening the clear voice. Then she brightens. "I'll be using it in another book. I've got much more information—from all over the island."

"Magic Sea Glass" also draws on written accounts. It contains bits and pieces from journals—chief of which is that of Sanborn's great-grandmother, Mary Vose Greenough, whose entries date from 1883 through 1926—and clippings from the "Vineyard Gazette," a weekly paper (which publishes twice weekly during the summer). Much of the language of these written sources is curious, even quaint. A woman, for instance, goes to her doctor to be "baked for neuritis"; vinegar contains "eel-like insects" which destroy the "animalcules" in tooth tartar. "These things from diaries," says Constance Sanborn, "If you use your imagination, you can get the most bizarre pictures—that's what fascinates me."

Constance Fuller Sanborn

There are also photographs—pages of vintage black and white prints of smiling children, graceful four-masted schooners, bungalows, amateur models in baggy bathing suits and island landmarks, many of which now live only on film. The photos are well-restored; many of them come from the collection of Sanborn's friend, H. Stanton Lair.

To further enhance the book, Sanborn enlisted the aid of another friend, Sally Ward, an artist with children's books of her own to her credit. Ward added whimsical pen-and-ink cartoons of vignettes not caught by the camera—gems such as "Mrs. Mc." taking a rifle to her electric street lamp, and Great Aunt Emory, dressed as a shipwreck for the costume ball.

According to its author, "The Magic Sea Glass of West Chop" is a labor of love. Through it she found that the course of publication—like love—does not always run smooth.

Sanborn published the book herself, mortgaging her house to pay the expenses. She hired her own production manager, Peter Carr, and paid an island press to put the book in printable form. It was at the final phase of publication, entrusted to a larger off-island company, that complications struck. "When the book at the binder's, some moisture got into the paper," she says. She opened her long-awaited first shipment and her heart sank. "All 2,000 copies were wrinkled," she says.

Sanborn sent them back.

When she received the second attempt at printing and binding, she found that it was damaged like the first. "There were about 275 good copies," she says.

She sent the second batch back. "It

Lions Club Makes Donation

The Andover Lions Club recently presented Bon Secours Hospital of Methuen with a $400 check towards the purchase of a WILD M690 surgical microscope. The state-of-the-art microscope provides eye surgeons and neurosurgeons better light, more powerful magnification, increased mobility and the important feature of foot controls to allow full use of both hands at all times. It allows surgeons to perform a wide variety of procedures with a great degree of accuracy.

Equipped with a camera connected to a video screen, the new microscope enables surgeons and operating room assistants to view procedures and tape them for future reference.

The Andover Lions Club has been a generous contributor to the Bon Secours Hospital for several years.

The reason there are so many surnames of Smith today is that during the Middle Ages the name was used for all metalworkers, or smelters, which means "to beat."

S.A.D.D. Night

The Andover High School S.A.D.D. club (Students Against Driving Drunk), the largest and first S.A.D.D. program in the Merrimack Valley, held their second annual S.A.D.D. night last week. A program organized to make the community aware, especially high school students, of the problem with driving and drinking. Just under 200 students and parents attended the two-hour program that was divided into three segments consisting of a guest speaker, a performance by the school's own "Connection Group" and a student-led discussion program with students and parents on the relationship between students and alcohol. The S.A.D.D. Club, founded four years ago has over 500 A.H.S. members led by officers: Laura Cervone, president; Pam Kostka, vice president; Julie Boland, secretary-treasurer; Doug Rotondi and John McIntyre, newsletter chairman, and Merrilee Clark, publicity chairman. Advisors to the club are Mike Marcoux and Patty Barrett. Photos clockwise from upper left: Guest speaker Jim Powers talks about his personal tragedy with driving and drinking; Ten-year-old Steve Sylvanowicz takes a look at Bill Shepard's first-place winning poster from the S.A.D.D. poster contest; "The Connection" performing a skit about students and alcohol. Students Lead Seminar

Six Andover High School students who are participating in the school's advanced peer counseling class, led a day-long seminar for 45 fellow students enrolled in communication training.

The focus of the presentation and activities was on skills that help build strong, healthy relationships. Supervised by counselors Rebecca Mooney and Mike Wartmann, the group engaged in discussion and role playing to identify areas of concern and methods of communication.

The leaders placed special emphasis on the difficult technique of effective confrontation: coming face-to-face with a problem in a relationship and clearly expressing negative feelings without casting blame or becoming angry and defensive. They explained that confrontation is the beginning of a two-way conversation during which both parties should speak honestly and listen carefully.

It was a challenging and rewarding day that opened new perspectives on personal relationships.

Alumni Day At AHS

The counseling department at Andover High School wishes to invite Andover High School graduates who are attending college to return to the high school for the annual Alumni Day on Friday, Dec. 20.

Alumni are invited to speak to students about their experiences on a college campus. Information on particular colleges and a student perspective on college life will be helpful to present Andover High School students as they prepare for their first year in college. Alumni will meet with small, informal groups to share information and student viewpoints.

Those wishing to participate should contact Mrs. Campobasso, counselor, Andover High School.

Kramer O'Neill receives his award from Joanne Liss, manager of Boston's Turtle Book Store.

Young Artist Wins Award

A young Andover artist recently received an award for his entry in a Boston area contest that was held in conjunction with National Children's Book Week.

Kramer O'Neill, 10, a student at West Elementary School, won third place (Black & White category) in the competition, which was sponsored by Turtle Bookstore. His sketch, along with those of nearly 200 entrants, will be on display through the end of November in the Boston Public Library's Children's Room.

O'Neill and the five other contest winners—three each in the two divisions of Black & White and Color—were honored in a brief ceremony on Nov. 16 at the Children's Resource Room in the Boston Public Library. Each received a gift certificate from Turtle Bookstore of Copley Place and an autographed copy of the book "Arthur's Tooth," by nationally-known artist/author Marc Brown. In addition, the first place B & W entry, rendered by Vicky Fang of Chesnut Hill, has been made into a bookmark.

Entries were judged by a panel composed of Brown, who designed this year's National Children's Book Week poster; Rocky Weaver, Children's Literature Specialist at the library; and Joanne Liss, general manager of Turtle Bookstore. They were judged on the basis of creativity, visual appeal and appropriateness to this year's "Good Books, Good Times" theme.

Fellow

James Ortiz, director of Northern Essex Community College's Academic Support Center, has been appointed a Policy Fellow for 1985/86 by the Institute for Educational Leadership's Education Policy Fellowship Program.

Fellowships are awarded to individuals who demonstrate leadership ability. Fellows at 25 national sites will learn how public education policy is formulated, meet leaders in education and human services and improve their leadership and communication skills.

Ortiz developed a special course cluster for hearing-impaired students and initiated the first college-oriented bilingual youth project in the Haverhill/Lawrence area while serving as NECC's coordinator of skills training programs from 1982-84.

Amos Blanchard House

Holiday Open House Planned

By Virginia Lopez Begg

Everybody is invited to celebrate the joys of Christmas at the Andover Historical Society's holiday open house Sunday, Dec. 8, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free.

The Amos Blanchard House will be decorated for the season with holiday arrangements by members of the Andover Garden Club. Five new period rooms, where guides will be present to answer questions, bring alive the way of life of Andover's people in the 1820s and 1830s. The Family Parlor invites visitors to imagine Blanchard in a heated political discussion with several real-life Andover neighbors in November 1828. In the Best Parlor, the time is August 1831 and the women gathered are enthusiastically discussing the words of a visiting preacher, Charles Finney. The kitchen pictures Mrs. Blanchard and her housekeeper working at their chores in the fall of 1830. Upstairs the best Bed Chamber and Reading Closet offer a glimpse of what business was like in Andover in 1835 and across the hall, the boarders Bedchamber depicts the lives of the young through the real-life activities of the Blanchard's son and two boarders from Phillips Academy.

Music of the season will resound throughout the historic home while visitors enjoy refreshments and view the new exhibit featuring items customarily used in Andover homes during the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries.

Preparations for the Andover Historical Society's Christmas open house are under the direction of John Givens and Marilyn Burns.

The society is a non-profit educational institution open to members and the public. For information on open hours exhibitions, tours, special events and membership, call the society office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Ombudsman

The Ombudsman Program of the Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley is recruiting men and women to work as advocates for the elderly who reside in rest homes and nursing homes in the area.

The Ombudsmen provide information, referral services and work to resolve residents' concerns.

There are three opportunities to be involved: as a paid staff, 55 years or older, of limited income and interested in the elderly; as a volunteer, 60 years of age or older with reimbursement for expense; as a volunteer with flexible hours, mileage paid, no age limit.

For further information, call Elizabeth J. Phaneuf at Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley.

Time To Prepare

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society reminds amateur gardeners that now is the time to begin preparations for entry in the amateur section of their 1986 New England Spring Flower Show March 8-16.

To be eligible, plants need to have been in an entrant's possession since December 7, 1985. For the section's challenge class, exhibitors begin with identical seeds and bulbs that need to be obtained by the end of November.

Schedules for competition, which outline the categories, rules and regulations for amateur section entrants, can be obtained by writing to the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, 300 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, MA 02115.

Native Among Teachers Honored At Space Center

One hundred and ten award winning teachers were honored at Kennedy Space Center in Florida during from Monday, Oct. 28 through Wednesday, Oct. 30. Tom Auchterlonie, an Andover native, a mathematics and computer teacher at Hommocks School in Larchmont, New York was among the honorees. The winners reunited to participate in a special three day symposium and work session and to view the launch of Space Shuttle Challenger, STS 61-A.

Auchterlonie is the son of Mrs. Irene Auchterlonie of 75 Red Spring Road. He is a 1963 graduate of Andover High School and a member of the Andover High Hall of Fame. He is a graduate of Springfield College where he was also inducted to the Springfield College Hall of Fame. He has been teaching at Hommocks School since 1967 and lives with his wife the former Jayne Ball and his two sons in Larchmont, New York.

The winners of the alumni of the summer 1985 NASA Education Workshops for Mathematics and Science Teachers (Newmast). The two-week workshops for NASA centers are sponsored by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) and the National Science Foundation in cooperation with the National Science Teachers Association and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

Tom Auchterlonie

The three day symposium was designed to bring together this nation's quality core group of mathematics and science teachers so that the entire nation may benefit from this expertise. The teachers pooled their resources to improve the implementation and spread of the huge resource base with NASA which has available to the educational community and citizenry at large.

Tuesday, Oct. 29 was devoted specifically to information and resource sharing. Teachers spent time with other participants from their NASA center synthesizing the information which they had gained from that specific space center. Presentations were then given by and to the participants focusing on NASA center specialties and offering curriculum aids and ideas in the field of mathematics, science and other disciplines.

A speech by and visits with NASA astronaut Colonel Robert F. Overmyer, a comprehensive historical tour through the Kennedy Space Center, and a shuttle briefing by Eugene Rocque, Integration and Landing Operation were some of the highlights of the three day symposium.

An Apollo Countdown Simulation was demonstrated and the IMAX movie, "The Dream is Alive," was also shown.

Glasses Sought For Needy

Colpitts Travel Associates has embarked on a mission of mercy to secure old glasses so that new glasses can be obtained for someone in need.

New Eyes for the Needy, an organization founded in Short Hills, N.J., in 1932, has helped more than three million people. Thanks to thoughtful individuals and organizations, New Eyes receives many thousands of packages every year. Processing is carefully done by volunteers working year-round.

Metal framed glasses and metal scrap are sold to a refinery and the redeemed cash is used to purchase new prescription glasses and artificial eyes for needy persons throughout the United States. Moreover, plastic framed glasses are tested, classified and sent abroad to medical missions and welfare agencies for redistribution.

Anyone who would like to contribute to this effort may bring old glasses to Colpitts Travel Center, 66 Main St., Andover.

Heavy alcohol consumption has been shown to interfere with the body's ability to get adequate folic acid, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, vitamins B-6, B-12 and C, magnesium and zinc.

Pilgrims didn't eat in courses as we know them. All foods were placed on the table at one time, including the sweetmeats (dessert) and people ate in any order they chose. Sometimes there were two courses per meal, but each course consisted of salad, fish, fowl, a meat, pudding, potage and sweets.

Glen Campbell Brings Holiday Show To Collins Center

Glen Campbell

Glen Campbell, famed country and pop singer/songwriter, will present two evenings of musical entertainment for the entire family when the Glen Campbell Christmas Show comes to Andover's J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts on Friday, Nov. 29, and Saturday, Nov. 30, at 8 p.m.

The country crooner from Arkansas gained fame in the '60s and '70s with a succession of hits like "Gentle on my Mind," "By the Time I get to Phoenix," "Wichita Lineman" and "Galveston." He has 12 hit singles which climbed the country and pop charts and earned him worldwide popularity.

Campbell began making music when he was a teen in the '50s, touring the southwest and playing in clubs. He began working studio sessions in his early 20s with such artists as Frank Sinatra, Bobby Darin, Rick Nelson, Elvis Presley and The Mamas and Papas. In 1965 he toured with the Beach Boys, filling in for Brian Wilson.

In 1975, "Rhinestone Cowboy," one of the biggest-selling singles of that year, went Gold and the album of the same name earned Campbell yet another Gold LP.

Two years later he did it again by adding "Southern Nights" to his Gold album list. He also released "Glen Campbell Live at the Royal Festival Hall" on which he was backed by the 75-piece Royal Philharmonic Orchestra.

For nearly five years Campbell had a weekly television variety show, "The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour" and frequent appearances on "The Smothers Brothers Show" won him a wide TV following.

Campbell also earned acting credits in such films as "True Grit" and the made-for-television movie, "Strange Homecoming." He starred in an HBO special in 1983 which won critical acclaim and guest starred Willie Nelson, Kris Kristofferson and Anne Murray.

Friday's performance is sold out, but good seats still remain for Saturday's presentation.

Tickets are available at the Collins Center box office, Shawsheen Road, off Routes 133 and 93, Andover.

Speaker

Robert L. Peek, president of Peek Financial Services, was recently selected by WEEL radio to speak at its all-day "Fiscal Fitness Financial Information Event" at the Sheraton Tara in Braintree.

Peek spoke on the role of tax shelters in a changing tax environment.

Christmas Concert Planned

The Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra will present its annual Christmas concert at St. Lucy's Church, 254 Merrimack St., Methuen, on Sunday, Dec. 8, at 3 p.m. The Christmas concert, which is dedicated to children of all ages, features soloists from the orchestra. Special guest artist, Dr. Nina Scarito, a board member of the Philharmonic and civic leader in the community, will narrate the children's classic "Tubby the Tuba" with Robert Hoker playing the tuba. The story concerns Tubby, a tuba who wants to play melodies like the other instruments, but is stuck with playing "Umpah, Umpah." Whenever he tries to play a melody, the other instruments laugh and scold him. After being consoled by Peepe, the Piccolo and given advice by a friendly frog, he tries a new melody and is promptly scolded by the other instruments. But, the conductor, Maestro Pizzicato, says, "I have never heard a tuba play a melody before. Please play it all." Tubby plays it, the other instruments join in and Tubby is happy at last.

Other works include "Sleigh Ride" by Leroy Anderson and "Carol of the Drum" by Katherine K. Davis. Domenic Teoli, violin, will be featured in Schubert's "Ave Maria" and joined by Marjorie Nelson, violin, and Mary Margolous, cello, for Corelli's "Christmas Concerto." Karen Traxel Franson and Catherine Pacek will play French horns in Telemann's "Concerto for Two Horns and Orchestra." Another concerto by Telemann, for two flutes, will be played by Susan Thorne and Betsy Boynton. The program will end with the singing of Christmas Carols, arranged by Leroy Anderson. Conductor George Monseur will again serve as host. His remarks and observations, particularly to children, have become a high point for this concert.

Bloodhounds can detect a scent up to ten days old.

Rabbits are rarely found deep in forests. They prefer places where bushes or clumps of tall grass are available for hiding.

Penny Ante Theater

In Performance At Library

Memorial Hall Library will present "Hans Brinker & the Silver Skates," performed by the Penny Ante Theater of New London, CT, on Sunday, Dec. 8, at 2:30 p.m. In this original adaptation of the classic tale by Mary Mapes Dodge, Hans and his family prepare for the great race to win the silver skates in faraway Holland.

The Penny Ante Theater is an educational touring theatre which, since 1978, has provided a special brand of entertainment which combines mime, humor, music and drama for audiences of all ages. Performers include Kevin Kane, folksinger and storyteller who adapted the story for this dramatic presentation; Robert Richter, actor and director who has appeared on the PBS TV series "Great Performances"; and Katie Polgar, a former member of London's "Rag-dolls." Carol Jones, a graduate of the National Theater Institute, directs the "Hans Brinker" production.

Since there will be only one performance and seating is limited, tickets are required and are available at the library.

This free performance has been funded by the Friends of the Library and a grant from the Andover Arts Council.

Drama Club Presents "Harvey"

By Scott Geaghan

Need a good laugh? Don't miss the Andover High School drama club's presentation of "Harvey" on December 4 at the Collins Center. The play features a six-foot-tall invisible rabbit named Harvey. The production is called a comic fantasy because it blends comedy of character with elements of the supernatural.

The play is being directed by Robert A. Lague. Michael Winsor plays the leading role of Elwood P. Dowd. Michael says, "This play has been a lot of hard work, but I think that it will pay off when we turn it into an excellent performance."

Rehearsals haven't been all hard times, though. Stage manager Holly Shanaman reflects, "It's been fun. Everybody puts in a lot of effort, but we have a good time." Other lead roles are played by Jo-Ellen Burkholder as Veta Louise Simmons, Heather Whyte as Myrtle Mae Simmons, Scott Geaghan as Dr. Sanderson and Jen Schroder as Nurse Kelly. Backing up the cast are Bonnie McLellan, Maya Gwen Emshwiller, Ed Pascucci, Chris Geaghan, Christine Morey, Daniel Norris and Mari Watkinson.

Be there when the curtain rises at 7:30 p.m. and enjoy.

Toy Taks

"Special Toys for Special Children" will be presented Wednesday, Dec. 4, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the North Shore Children's Hospital's Center for Applied Special Technology, 76 Lafayette St., Salem.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

When selecting toys for your child, don't assume they're safe just because they're on the market. Take special note of the age range the toy is suited for. Check the toys you do purchase for broken parts and discard any that look precarious. Don't give your infant stuffed toys with removable, swallowable parts. Use open, stackable cubes, vegetable bins, or milk crates for storing toys. If you do use a standard toy chest, either remove the lid completely or be sure it has a lid support. A lid support is a device (not a hinged device) that breaks the fall of the lid at various intervals and prevents it from slamming shut.

To Host Regional Conference

The University of Lowell, with one of the largest continuing education programs in the state, will receive national exposure early next month when it hosts "New Roles for Continuing Educators: Preparing for Change," the National University Continuing Education Association Region I Conference, December 4-6, at the Sheraton Rolling Green Conference Center, Andover.

Conference Coordinator Dirk Messelaar, assistant director of U Lowell Continuing Education and the association's New England region director, emphasized that adult education is becoming more essential as fewer new workers are needed in an increasingly information-technological society.

"Adult education at this university, as well as across the country, is slowly moving from being an academic stepchild to becoming an assertive, entrepreneurial, mainstreamed advocate for adult learners. It is a privilege for the university to host this conference which will bring together a prestigious group of educators from the Northeast," he said.

Messelaar said all four-year universities and colleges in New England with sizable continuing education programs will participate in the conference which begins with a preconference seminar, "Marketing Continuing Education," on December 4, led by Judith Markoe, director of marketing at The University of Maryland University College.

Harvey Stedman, dean of continuing education at New York University, will present "New Roles for Continuing Educators: Preparing for Change." Two NUCEA officials, President-elect Hilton Bonniwell and executive director Kay J. Kohl will offer comments at the Region I banquet December 5.

Sessions for December 5 include "Continuing Education and a Borderless Economy," by Manley R. Irwin, University of New Hampshire; "Using Microcomputers Effectively in the Recruiting and Retention of Adult Learners," by Grenville B. Winthrop, III, and Charlene Baxter, School for Lifelong Learning, University System of New Hampshire; "Adults Reentering College to Enter Teaching: A New Continuing Education Student Population," by Mark Keefe and Robert Maloy, University of Mass. at Amherst; and "Strategic Planning for Effective Change," by Donna L. Dacus, University of Minnesota.

The Region I annual meeting is scheduled for December 6 in addition to sessions on individualized learning, travel programs, the role of marketing in program development and management training for the nurse manager.

The University of Lowell's continuing education program, with 8,000 students enrolled in the fall semester, has introduced evening child-care facilities, tutoring services, shuttle-bus service to parking sites, learning skills and anxiety workshops, mail-in and phone-in registration and credit-card payments this past year. Future plans call for a recognition ceremony for adult learners who have overcome unusual barriers or excelled academically, off-campus sites in Woburn and Lawrence and Saturday classes.

Messelaar stressed that university and college officials should not underestimate the importance of continuing higher education. "Besides being the fastest growing industry in the United States today, the continuing professional education of mid-career adults represents the most important shift in the college population since the vast expansion of the 1960's," he said.

Shannon Conducts Reunions

Former Congressman James M. Shannon met last week with friends and supporters at reunions in Lawrence and Newton. Shannon volunteers gathered at the home of Democratic fundraiser Matha Hass on Monday, Nov. 18. On the following evening Shannon hosted a reception at the Lawrence Elks Club and discussed recent activities and future plans.

This fall he travelled to Argentina as a participant in a seminar on democratic institutions, attended by the country's new national leadership. More recently he visited England, Ireland, Belgium and France to examine world economic issues with members of the public and private sectors and academicians. Shannon journeys to China on a fact-finding mission in December.

He has appeared on the "MacNeil-Lehrer News Hour," written for the "Boston Globe" and joined a League of Women Voters panel analyzing the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget amendment.

Shannon, his wife, Silvia, and his five-year-old daughter, Sarah, are the owners of a freshly renovated Victorian home in Lawrence, in the Fifth Congressional District he represented for three terms. As a senior partner in the Boston-based Hale & Dorr law firm, the 33-year-old Shannon looks forward to running for statewide office again. To that end, a group of supporters has formed the Jim Shannon Committee to help him retire his 1984 campaign debt and launch future campaigns.

Seat Belt Law To Take Effect

To buckle-up or not; that's one of the questions people are asking these days when they call Citizen Information Service, a division of Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly's office. The answer is Chapter 416 of the Acts of 1985 which goes into effect on January 1, 1986; it says that everyone who rides in a motor vehicle equipped with safety belts will have to wear one. The new law includes taxicabs, fire fighting equipment and vans and trucks equipped with seat belts. And, it means that safety belts must be in good working order for a car to pass the yearly safety and emissions inspection of Massachusetts motor vehicles. If the seat belts in your car were removed, you'll have to replace them.

For some years now, an earlier law has required that parents protect all children under five years with either an approved car seat or safety belt or be subject to a fine of $25. Under the new law, everyone above the age of five is now required to wear a seat belt. Each person over 16 not buckled up may be fined $15. In addition to his own $15 fine, the driver may be fined $15 for each child between the ages of five and 16 not wearing a seat belt.

There are some exceptions to the new seat belt law:

Children under five who are covered by the Massachusetts Child Passenger Safety Law;

Persons riding in a vehicle in which all seating positions equipped with seat belts are occupied by persons using those belts (a six-passenger vehicle with only four seat belts);

Passengers in a bus or school bus;

Motor vehicles manufactured before July 1, 1966;

Persons physically unable to use a safety belt (a doctor must certify the nature of the physical condition and why the use of a seat belt is inappropriate);

Rural mail carriers in the performance of their duties;

Drivers and passengers who frequently stop and leave a motor vehicle or delivers property from the vehicle if the vehicle speed does not exceed 15 mph between stops;

Police officers in the performance of their duties.

Law enforcement officers may not, however, stop a vehicle solely because the occupants are not wearing seat belts. They must first stop a vehicle for violating the motor vehicle laws. The officer may then cite and fine any occupant of the vehicle for not wearing a seat belt. This does not result in any surcharge on insurance premiums.

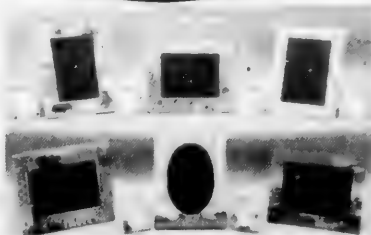

Under the new seat belt law, Connolly must include a non-binding referendum question on next year's state election ballot. That question will ask voters whether or not they approve of the seat belt law; it requires no legislative activity.

Remember to buckle-up beginning January 1.

The Citizen Information Service answers questions about state government; it is a division of the Office of Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly. The staff answers questions from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Foreign language assistance is available in Spanish, French and Italian.

RANSOM by JAY MCINERNEY

A new novel by the author of the national best seller
Bright Lights, Big City

After a tragic and violent experience at the Khyber Pass, Ransom has settled in Kyoto, the ancient capital of Japan. Here, chiefly through the rigors of karate, he manages to regain his equilibrium. But as Ransom soon discovers, this idyllic life among fellow expatriates and drifters—all hovering around an American-style blues bar—is immune from neither criminal violence nor his own profound disillusionment. A novel of wisdom and humor. Ransom is master story-teller.

Garden Club Plans Home Tour

The Andover Garden Club will present a tour of seven area houses for members and friends on Saturday, Dec. 7, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The day's theme is "The Sights and Sounds of the Season." Each house represents a distinct architectural style, enhanced by appropriate holiday decorations and a variety of musical backgrounds.

Various committees are working to prepare the houses for viewing. Mrs. Ralph Hill and Mrs. Robert Lange are coordinating an impressive Federal home built in 1811. Mrs. Irving E. Rogers, Jr. is in charge of a richly-detailed traditional cape. A graceful contemporary cape is being coordinated by Mrs. Norman C. Frost, while a contemporary ranch with dramatic solarium room is being decorated by a committee headed by Mrs. John Boshart. A more contemporary colonial home will be supervised by Mrs. John T. Batal, Jr. Mrs. Vito Frazzette heads a group who will interpret authentic decorations for a Williamsburg-style home.

The seventh house on the tour is the Andover Historical Society at 97 Main St. Built in 1820, this lovely building affords a glimpse of our ancestors' way of life. Decorating chairman is Mrs. Franklin P. Swain, Jr. Refreshments will be served throughout the day at this location. A holiday gift boutique will be on display at the Historical Society, featuring many unusual items, handcrafted by club members.

Mrs. Thomas Noyes is coordinating the many boutique workshops. Mrs. George Monks, director of ways and means, is overall planner for the project. Mrs. Robert H. Stier, Jr. is handling publicity. Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Lange, club president, both accomplished flower arrangers and flower show judges, are acting as general design consultants. Mrs. S. Joseph Hoffman is chairman of properties.

Ann Casper and Mrs. Paul Cook head a committee preparing refreshments. Mrs. John F. Battles is in charge of the hostesses who will greet visitors at each home. Mrs. Anthony Sakowich is ticket chairman.

The Andover Garden Club, in its 58th year of programming, finances many civic improvement and beautification projects throughout Andover and supports numerous affiliated organizations. The club is a member of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc. and The Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts, Inc.

Preschool Hosts Silent Auction

The Free Church Cooperative Preschool, 31 Elm St., Andover, will be filled not only with blocks, books and the buzz of activity, but also with tables brimming with homemade goods and descriptions for the school's annual Silent Auction on Wednesday, Dec. 4, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Some of the items already donated include Christmas ornaments, baked goods, stencilled baby clothing, videotapes, a hand-painted cradle, a canoe trip on the Shawsheen River, an Aikido lesson and homemade wreaths. This year's winner of the raffle will receive a video cassette recorder.

The purpose is to raise enough money to provide a scholarship, if needed by a child wishing to enroll in the school. One underlying principle of the Free Church Cooperative Preschool is to foster a sense of the fun and satisfaction people can get from working together and helping one another. The scholarship is one manifestation of that philosophy.

Another example of that principle at work was the annual work party held on Wednesday, Oct. 16. After a potluck supper, the dads and moms spent a few hours sprucing up their children's environment: sanding, hammering, painting, washing.

The children have been busy, too. As they settle in to the school's routine, individual talents and interests unfold. Kaitlin Watson loves the shell collection. Brienne Hart is often seen paintbrush in hand. Of course, everyone enjoyed the day before Halloween when the teachers read to, played with and taught little ghosts, storybook characters and monsters. The day started with a Halloween parade; the marchers included Kate Cook as a Care Bear, Danielle Davis as a lovely gypsy, Matthew Hanson as Tenderheart Bear, Matthew Papadopoulos as Superman and John Yagual as a mouse.

They will be accompanied by piano and African percussion. Tickets are available at Mission Traders, Liggett's Drugs and Thompson's Stationers, all in Andover, or through the church office, 41 Central St. "Black Nativity" is the first in South Church's 1985-86 Performing Arts Series. It is being presented for the 14th season by the Afro-American Artists, who are affiliated with the Elma Lewis School of Fine Arts in Roxbury.

Thanksgiving Service Planned

The local Christian Science congregation is planning a special Thanksgiving service for the community. Neighbors, friends and anyone wishing to join them in giving thanks to God are invited on November 28 at 10:30 a.m. at 278 North Main St.

The sermon on "Thanksgiving" will focus on actively expressing gratitude to God by following Christ Jesus in daily life. The Master's injunction sounds the keynote: "Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give."

The service will include hymns of praise, brief silent prayer and the Lord's Prayer.

A portion of service is set aside for spontaneous expressions of gratitude by members of the congregation.

The Indians of southeastern Massachusetts who befriended the Pilgrims were of the Wampanoag. Wampanoag means People of the Dawn. They lived on Cape Cod, Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and inland. Today, Wampanoag continue to live in those areas. The Wampanoag Indian program of Plimoth Plantation gives visitors insight into the history and culture of these native Americans.

Videotaping Of Children Considered By School Board

The treasurer of Vis Kids, an Oxford company that videos children in school systems to create video identification of the child, appeared before the School Committee last week to discuss the merits of his service.

The video tape would be locked in a Brinks Bank vault in West Springfield. It would be provided to parents and police in eight hours, if a child on the tape is reported missing.

"There is no real cohesive plan of identifying children who are alive," Charles Squire, treasurer of Vis Kids, told the committee. "If you talk to a policeman you'll find that fingerprinting is only useful in identifying a dead body. Video tapes not only point out individual features, but, also provide voice prints, which are as unique to the child as fingerprints."

The idea for the year-old company was begun by Squire, who is a father of three, when he was discussing a program about missing children with a neighbor one year ago.

"I spoke with parents and the police department to find out what information is helpful when searching for a missing child. Unique physical characteristics or speech qualities were said to be helpful factors in the search for a missing child."

The fee for the video is $2. Parents are requested to sign a release form that allows the video. Questions such as favorite pets, sports, items, allergies, special medications or impairments, appear on the form to be answered by the parents.

The company videos 158 to 200 children on a given video. Each child is asked a set of questions, name, pets, hobbies, and stands beside a large ruler that indicates the child's height. The video is then sealed in the Brinks vault, released at parents or police request if a child on the tape turns up missing.

School Committee Chairman Donald Robb informed Squire that he would like him to make a presentation to the Andover School P.T.O., and give other video salesmen in the area a chance to make the committee aware of their service.

Kerry Milliken and HMS Dash in competition.

Andover Woman Attains Top Equestrian Honors

Last month, a young woman from Andover attained international celebrity status in the riding world.

Kerry Millikin, 23, recently returned from Boekelo, Holland, where she and her horse, HMS Dash, competed as part of the four-member U.S. Equestrian Team in the prestigious C.C.I. International Competition, held Oct. 17-20. The team placed first over participants from eight other countries, marking the first U.S. win in the history of the three-day event.

Millikin, a lifelong Andover resident, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Millikin of Holt Road. A former member of the Rockingham Pony Club, she has placed high in national events, including a third-place win in the 1982 National Junior Riders' Championship. The C.C.I. was her first international competition; it also marked her debut as a member of the U.S. team which requires participants to qualify for each individual meet.

To win the C.C.I., a team must rank first in combined scores for dressage, cross-country jumping and show jumping. Each rider competes astride his or her own mount; the horses are transported to Holland with their owners by air.

Millikin, who has been riding since she was eight years old, bought Dash as a "green"—untrained or minimally trained—four-year-old in 1979. She brought the bay gelding to its present level of proficiency by training it herself with the help of instructors.

*The Second Front PageSupt. Siefert Calls For More Attention On Responsibility

By Lisa Waterman

Greater attention to citizenship within the school curriculum was called for by Supt. Kenneth Seifert during last week's School Committee discussion of a curriculum and instructional overhaul plan.

"Less than 5 percent of formal preparation of student is for citizenry. Its role is as important as any subject. Training students to be an active participant in citizenship should be an integral part of education. We hear about rights and more rights in education but there is no call for the development of student responsibility in conjunction with rights," Seifert said.

An objective of the school system should be to provide opportunities for engaging in duties and responsibilities of citizenship, according to Seifert.

The work would begin with an establishment of an authentic student government that would be a chartered governance role and would be responsible for leadership in each school. Equally important would be a student plan for participating in the maintenance of each school building, according to Seifert.

"All students should manage and monitor the building maintenance plan and accept responsibility for the appearance and climate of their surroundings," he said.

"I've seen students at Phillips Academy, whose parents pay up to $10,000 tuition per year, responsible for the clearing of sidewalks after snow storms. I've seen students at our high school walking behind the janitor who is in his late sixties, as he shovels and complaining about the conditions of the sidewalks," Seifert said.

The superintendent would like to see students begin to learn and practice leadership and decision-making with responsibilities defined and rights enumerated.

"Students should have the right to be able to put forth grievances in a democratic way. They should be allowed the right to bargain over their working conditions and their rights. The student council should have areas of democracy that are more valid than when to schedule the Friday night dance," Supt. Seifert said.

The five major areas under student responsibility that the superintendent would like to see would be: a student government established, chartered with authentic governance roles, leadership and decision making provided for students participating in student government, how to make an agenda, call a meeting, make policy, responsibilities defined and rights enumerated, a systemwide student constitutional congress and a student contract between the School Committee and the students.

As part of a constitution, a student judiciary would be put in effect. Currently, 50 students in the high school participate on a board that makes judiciary decisions for fellow students.

The Student Advisory Council is currently working on constitution and bill of rights for the high school students, according to student council member, Margaret Easton. Maintenance issues such as vandalism and problems with cafeteria maintenance by students, are also being addressed by the council.

The superintendent would like to see mandatory student community service projects in grades, 6, 9, 12.

"Community Service projects ranging from cleaning up the Shawsheen River or sixth graders tutoring second graders, peer group assistance within the classroom, would be helpful in student responsibility and citizen awareness," Seifert said. "It is just as important to teach people to be good citizens as it is to teach them about math, reading and science."

"Student responsibility is vital. These are the best ideas regarding student responsibilities that I have been exposed to," School Committee member David A. Birnbach said.

The School Committee will be considering the part of concerning student responsibility in the continued discussions and study of the Curriculum and Instruction Plan package developed by the school administrators.

Motel Requests Before ZBA

Koala Inn-Andover Associates on New River Road will be going before the Zoning Board of Appeals on Thursday, Dec. 5, to apply for a special permit under the Zoning Bylaw to install and use a satellite receiving dish to receive video programming.

Also, Ocerin, Inc., Ocean Properties, Ltd., 8132 West Glades Road, Boca Raton, Florida, will be requesting modification of a board decision to increase the number of rooms from 250 to 297 on the preliminary plans for the construction of a motel on Old River Road with frontage on Route 93.

Other petitions before the board will include: Ronald J. Abraham, 15 Elm St., will provide additional information regarding parking for the proposed repair garage for motorized vehicles at 3 Lupine Road. The October petition by Abraham was withdrawn without prejudice.

Terence P. MacDonald, 32 Andover St., for modification of a board decision to permit the operation of the convenience store and take-out food service formerly operated by Joseph and Celeste Carnevale. Premises affected are located at 38 Andover St.

Annual Harvest Festival

The Sanborn School children conducted their seventh annual Harvest Festival last Thursday and Friday by collecting canned goods, packaged foods, plants and home-baked items that were placed in baskets and delivered to the elderly and shut-ins for Thanksgiving. Under the supervision of Evon Roycroft and faculty members, 70 baskets were filled with food items by the fifth graders after a Thanksgiving assembly held on Thursday involving the student body, attended by Dr. Seifert and other town officials. Friday, the sixth graders boarded a bus and delivered the baskets that contained the items, donated by the student body, to the elderly residents in town and made a stop at the Senior Citizen Center to greet the elderly and sing some holiday songs. The idea for the Harvest Festival was the idea of former music teacher Mary Guziejka who observed one while in England, where the festival is a traditional event. Photos clockwise from upper left: Bus driver, Jim Naticchioni, helps unload the bus with Minh Nguyen; Amy Canfield and Helen Wood look over items in the boxes; Tina Coluci and Jennifer Asoian talk with Mrs. Rita Done after giving her a package; Maria Keohan, Xanthe Johnson and Melissa Sandler carry in a Thanksgiving package for Mrs. O'Neal; Jennifer Asoian and Katie Lamanna give Ezra Tracy a warm greeting at the center; Erik Greenstein loads himself and a package on the bus; Minh Nguyen listens to Caroline Ingram at the center; Louise Rondeau with Sanborn students, Mike Keohan, Michelle Herbert and Heather Butler.

Thanksgiving

In a world hardly free of turmoil and terror, we pause this week to celebrate the truest and most meaningful of all American holidays --- Thanksgiving.

Truly American, for it dates back to our Pilgrim forefathers who paused to give thanks for surviving their first year in a new world and for a bountiful harvest. In the spirit of brotherhood they invited their Indian neighbors who had assisted them in adapting to their new land, to feast with them in celebration.

It was declared a national Day of Thanksgiving in 1777 by the Continental Congress. In 1863, President Abraham Lincoln designated the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day. The declaration was made despite the Civil War being waged, Lincoln making the decision to continue that annual day of gratitude despite the north-south strife.

In the many years that have followed those decisions to celebrate an annual day of thanks, much has changed in our country and the world, but the basic premise of this holiday remains steadfast, namely, to take the opportunity to express gratitude for our blessings.

When families sit down to join in a festive celebration tomorrow, the meal may well have been prepared in record time through the use of microwave ovens, or at least the modern convenience of electric or gas ranges. A far cry from the wood-stoked fireplaces of that first Thanksgiving and the tedious attention needed to insure the proper cooking of the holiday meal.

But, the modern conveniences and the easier recreational pursuits, such as television, hardly dims the true meaning of the holiday.

Our world continues to be plagued by the problems created by those who fail to desire living in peaceful understanding.

At home, we continue to try to deal with family tragedies, abuse of human life, concern for the hungry, and remain truly desirous of bringing about a world dedicated to peace and free of nuclear threat.

Tomorrow, those feelings are best represented in the Thanksgiving gathering around a festive table taking time to give prayerful gratitude for our many blessings, both personal and as a nation.

Also, we are grateful for the strength afforded to bear life's adversities.

It is truly a time of thanksgiving.

This holiday permits us to believe that the love and understanding of that first Thanksgiving remains as much a part of our lives as it did centuries ago --- that this holiday spirit becomes a part of our lives and becomes universal, thus producing a world dedicated to peace.

In that sense, we continue to manifest the theme established by the grateful Pilgrims of years ago.

A Happy Thanksgiving to all!

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — November 10

The fire department was called out Wednesday night to a chimney fire at the residence of Prof. Moorehead, owing to the high wind, the sparks flew freely, but no damage was done.

A small seven-year-old boy belonging in Frye Village, in attempting to skate last Wednesday, on Hussey's Pond found that the ice was rather insecure, for very much to his surprise it broke and he tumbled in. His companions pulled him out, however, and he is none the worse for his experience.

Andoverites who journey back and forth daily upon the trains and those who will take advantage of them more and more as the Christmas shopping season draws nearer are glad of the additional train service which went into effect last Monday.

The trophy to be given to the winner of the tournament between the Andover Club and the North Andover Club is a shield on which is a plate bearing the inscription "Andover versus North Andover Club. Bowling, Pool, Billiards, Whist," surrounded by a wreath of laurel. Here's hoping it will remain in Andover.

The game of the season in soccer circles will be played tomorrow, when Clan McPherson and Methuen play their championship game.

(VA10)50 Years Ago — November 1935

Three men were killed and eight injured when a passenger train crashed into a truckload of workman at 4:05 p.m. on Tuesday, in Ballardvale near the Wilmington line.

Because of a season in which it has been undefeated, untied, and unscored on, the Phillips Academy football team goes into the annual Exeter game tomorrow a favorite to win, with the only stumbling block in the local team's way being the old over-confidence bugaboo.

Town Treasurer Thaxter Eaton received this week a check of $29,313.03 from the P.W.A. as partial payment of a federal grant in connection of the new school, this is the third partial payment, the two previous payments totalled $91,520.37.

The question of the restoration of the town employees salary cut, in whole or in part, will, in all probability, be taken up at the annual town meeting in March, the movement having received considerable impetus from many recent wage increases in textile and other industries.

The department of telephone and telegraph utilities does not feel that the studies made to date on the Lawrence-Andover toll call situation justify a change, according to a letter received this week by the Board of Selectmen.

(VA10)25 Years Ago — November 1960

Two out-going members of the Board of Selectman have announced their candidacies for re-election, James D. Wilson and Philip K. Allen stated this week that they will individually seek a full three-year term on the board.

The Selectmen, Planning Board and John Phillip Enterprises appear to be deadlocked over providing off-site drainage from the firm's sub-division on the Wild Rose farm.

Fee Tripled

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

Re: Renewal of all alcoholic beverage license for restaurants

Please consider this letter as an open letter to the Board of Selectmen, for whom the following comments are meant.

Enclosed with this letter, you will find the renewal affidavit for above-mentioned license together with our check for $4,500.

It is about that amount of money that I wish to make some comments.

When we applied for a liquor license in 1984, before we purchased the Lundgren home, we paid $1,500 for 1984's license. In November 1984, just before we opened, we were notified that the town increased the liquor license fee for 1985 to $3,000, which we paid at that point, that the fee would go to $4,500 for 1986 and to $5,000 thereafter.

In other words, the fee tripled in two years and has not reached its peak.

Does the Board of Selectmen know what other towns ask for their liquor licenses? And, is this board not going a bit far with their prices?

It is well known that restaurants and theatres draw people from other communities into the town they are located in and that other local businesses usually benefit tremendously from this. Lexington center would not be so successful if two or three restaurants would not have come in 12 years ago; all merchants in that center will confirm that as being a very important part of that center's growth.

Winchester recently attracted a couple of restaurants in their efforts to rejuvenate its center and to give the other merchants some help. And what a difference it has made so far already.

The survey below will show you that some people might think, like the Andover TOWNSMAN recently wrote in an editorial, that this town is becoming anti-business.

Andover, $4,500 (will be $5,000 next year); Lexington, $3,000; Burlington, $1,500; North Andover, $1,250; Haverhill, $1,100; Winchester, $500.

The Town of Andover is by no means a poor town, with the tax it receives from its high-priced residential real estate and on top of that the real estate tax on a considerable amount of commercial real estate (many towns would love to have just half of it), I feel that it has not made the right decision to zap it to the restaurants.

I would appreciate it if the Board of Selectmen could review this license fee situation in view of what I stated above and in view of keeping it in line with surrounding or comparable towns/cities.

I also would like to hear from the board how they justify the triple increase and the present and future fee level, especially compared to other towns/cities.

Just to add something as general information, I would like to point out that state and nationwide statistics show a vast drop in the consumption of alcoholic beverages away from home and, do you know that the liquor liability insurance (because of the "host-liability-law") has doubled to tripled in the past two years? A medium-size restaurant, like in Andover, will pay approximately $10,000 per year in insurance just for that. On top of that comes your regular liability insurance.

I am pleased to be in Andover with Rembrandt's Restaurant, however, with the increases in fees it does make me wonder why I did not open, for example, in North Andover and save

ERA BAY STATE REALTY BUILDING

COMMON GROUND

by J. Anthony Lukas

A turbulent decade in the lives of three American families.

How do large and tumultuous social forces invade individual lives? How do the feelings and actions of individual men and women—the ordinary citizen as well as the powerful—inflame or stem currents of social disturbance? What led to the decade of urban crisis that followed the assassination of Martin Luther King, when cities across America began to burn and an era of hopeful social activism gave way to urban frustration, anger, and violence—and what did that angry decade mean to the lives of actual American parents and their children?

He takes us into the histories and homes and lives of 3 families: a racist code word and becomes a threat to their survival.

A brilliant tapestry of changing life in our cities. An original, arresting, and important book.

Warrior Booters Get Awards

By Billy-Ernesto Martin

The Andover varsity soccer team concluded its superb 18-2-2 year with the annual breakup banquet at the Sheraton Rolling Green last Friday night. The evening was set up to honor all the varsity players and reward those who played a step beyond themselves. Team members earning letters included Barry Tucker, John Lecomte, David Doyle, Paul McAdam, Scott Wilkins, Chris Sapuppo, Mike Hardock, David Bartle, Geoff Bolan, Bruce Crawford, Bob Pothier, Scott Brink, Chris Abell, Olaf Doerffer, Jim Saalfrank, John Saalfrank, Mark Shairo, Brian Cronin, Mark Neaves, Tom Cioffi and Chris Concemi.

Goalie Pothier, who compiled a .24 goals against average during the regular season, tops in the state, was awarded Most Valuable Player.

Tucker, who scored 20 goals and had 11 assists during the regular season, was awarded Most Skilled Player and halfback McAdam was awarded Most Improved. The Coach's Award was awarded to halfback Wilkins, who scored 11 goals and had seven assists. The Twelfth Man Award, as voted by his teammates, was presented to stopper Mike Hardock.

The Warriors faced a tough Andover Division 1 over-the-hill team on Sunday, but still proved too talented as they came away with a hard-fought 2-0 victory. Scoring goals were Tucker and Bolan.

As this is my final report for this season, I congratulate Coach Dave Amundsen and the varsity squad for a great season and, just as all the rest of the fans, look forward to next year.

Pike Soccer Concludes

The girls' varsity soccer team topped The Pike School's athletic season with a 5-4-1 record. The team, led by captains Jenny Legg of Portsmouth, N.H., and Daye McManus of North Andover, ended the season with a hard-fought victory over Glen Urquhart School 1-0.

Boys' varsity soccer, led by captains Jeff Wilson of Lawrence, Aidan Riordan of Georgetown and Steve Pellegrino of North Andover, struggled through a 1-8-1 season. Consistently facing older and larger teams, Pike players gained valuable experience against difficult competition.

Boys' second and third varsity merged midway through the season. With a full bench and a group of talented sixth graders, Pike tied two games against Brookwood School and split a win and a loss with The Fenn School to end the season with a record of 1-6-2. Matt Polli of North Andover was the team's high scorer.

Girls' junior varsity improved steadily, developing their team skills for a season which ended with two wins and three losses. The captains were Holly Stern of Hampton, N.H., and Kim Wilson of Lawrence.

INFORMATION CONCERNING CABLE TELEVISION FOR EVERYONE.

By Jim Novo, November 27, 1985

DOING IT YOUR WAY. PART THREE

It could be argued, of course, that these corporate sponsors of Public Broadcasting Stations could spend their money on other advertising mediums. Newspaper, radio, network television, cable channels - and many do. But the decision is not quite that clear cut, because each of these mediums may have a different type audience. Your target, as a sponsor, would be determined by your product offering. Just as different programs appeal to different sets of people, so do the applications and purchasing decisions concerning different types of products.

What type of person is likely to watch PBS on a regular basis? Many types; however, they have one thing in common: a desire for a very specialized program offering which is unavailable elsewhere. It also follows that these people may be unavailable to sponsors of other types of programs. The viewers of specialized programs have specialized interests, and this is very attractive to sponsors with a specialized product.

So you find a major communications company sponsoring the MacNeil-Lehrer Newshour, high tech firms behind NOVA, and a radio station with Dr. Who.

PeeWee B's Split A Pair

The parity rounds are over in the Danvers League and Andover had a decent show. They ended in the same division as Somerville, Lynn and Methuen. The other two teams are Swampscott and Salem, the teams Andover split with.

Swampscott walked away after being shut out 5-0. The scoring was opened by a neat shot in front of the goalie by Matt Tanner. Billy Ownes stored to run the tally and Joe Howard followed with his hard-working style. The boys plugged on and got two more goals from Mike D'Angelo

Men's Hoop Results

After two weeks of Men's Senior and Junior Division basketball, standings are as follows:

Senior Division: Classique (2-0) beat the Suns (1-1) 63-56; Front Row Photo (1-1) won a 66-36 victory over Pepsi Hot Shots (0-2); Panthers (2-0) came out on top over Shenanigans (0-2) 53-39.

Junior Division: Howe Realty (2-0) beat Landrys (0-2) 61-55; Trombley Motor Coach (2-0) won 49-37 over North Andover VFW; McCrackens (1-1) defeated Andover Companies (0-2) 69-67; LaFond Insurance (2-0) beat the Snakes (0-2) 62-49.

Highway Renumbered

Massachusetts Department of Public Works Commissioner Robert T. Tierney announced that the renumbering of exits along interstate 93 is scheduled to be completed within the next two weeks.

Originally, the highway, which runs from I-95 in Canton to the New Hampshire border, consisted of four different connecting roads: State Route 3 and 128, the Central Artery and I-93.

As the entire route is now designated I-93, exit numbers are being changed to run consecutively from one end of the highway to the other. The renumbering of the entire interstate will be completed this year.

and Danny Feeley. Credit for the shutout goes to Mike Daley who was steady in the net. Not only are shutouts a credit to good netminding, but are also a defensive win and Tanner, Michael Walsh, John Constantine and Bobby Sheehan deserve the victory as steady defenseman.

The boys dropped what should have been an easy win last Friday night to Salem 5-2. Both Andover goals came from D'Angelo, second leading scorer on the team. Tim Fox had a couple of shots at the net, but to no avail. Joey Liguori and Jay Coburn dug in the corners and some fancy work by Greg Afarian had Andover hoping they'd catch up and win. Pete O'Shea tried more than once and then the buzzer won out.

The animal with the largest brain in proportion to its body size is the ant.

Drug Prevention Showcase Set

Alcohol and drug abuse prevention requires involvement and expertise. The Prevention Network has organized a show case of educational materials for the prevention of alcohol and drug abuse at the Lawrence Public Library on Tuesday, Dec. 3, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Four workshops will feature curriculum packages which have been reviewed by the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs. These curricula seek to reduce the demand of young people for drugs and alcohol.

The Prevention Network sponsors this showcase as part of its mission to provide information on alcohol and drug prevention/education strategies to schools and communities. Funded by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health and operating as part of the Psychological Center, the Prevention Network is charged with delivering training, education and information to the institutions and citizens of the Merrimack Valley from the Lowell area to Newburyport.

In addition to education and training, the Prevention Network houses a library of films, curricula, hand-out sheets and books. The services are free of charge to area residents and institutions.

For more information about the Curriculum Showcase or the services of the Prevention Network, contact the Prevention Network, 488 Essex St., Lawrence, MA 01840.

Closing Costs Over $4,000

Homebuyers in eastern Massachusetts can expect to pay $3,748.56 to $4,623.56 in closing costs, according to a new report by Citicorp Homeowners Incorporated.

Closing costs, which vary by state, locality, custom and lender, cover a variety of fees, beginning with the first appraisal of the home to the actual closing of the agreement.

Based on a $117,650 single-family home with a one-year adjustable rate $100,000 mortgage at 10 percent, these costs include approximately $2,900 to $3,400 in required fees and $800 to $1,200 in optional charges. The most expensive charges of approximately $1,000 are for the lender's attorney and points. These and other costs are estimates and will vary by lender and the provider of outside services. Closing costs include the following mandatory and optional charges which are paid throughout the process:

At mortgage application: appraisal, $125-$250; credit report, $25-$100; application, $50-$250.

During approval process: pest inspection, $25-$50; well/septic inspection, $25-$50; mortgage plot plan, $100-$150.

At closing: interim interest (based on closing on 20th day of month), $305.56; points, $1,000; lender's attorney, $1,000; mortgage title insurance, $125; municipal lien certificate, $15-$30; recording, $50-$60; private mortgage insurance, $400.

Some optional costs may include: legal, $300-$500; home inspection, $150-$300; owner's title insurance policy, $53.

Other optional costs are buyer/seller adjustments reconciled at closing such as utility adjustments and property taxes.

These estimated closing costs do not include hazard insurance, a mandatory fee paid during the approval process. This amount can vary greatly with location, amount of insurance and the carrier.

James T. Masters of Citicorp Homeowners in Boston conducted a survey of costs and prepared the report.

"Everyone involved in the mortgage business knows of homebuyers who enter a transaction and then confront expenses they had never been prepared for," he said. "I just thought I would pull together the information I would want to know if I were buying a home."

Citicorp Homeowners Incorporated is a subsidiary of Citicorp, a financial services company with more than $150 billion in assets.

The Pilgrims first set foot on American soil on November 11, 1620, on present-day Provincetown at the tip of Cape Cod.

Bank Aids Tree Lighting Event

This year's Merrimack College Christmas tree lighting will take place Sunday, Dec. 8, at 6:30 p.m. The program will include the lighting of the large evergreen tree near the Collegiate Church of Christ the Teacher on the Merrimack campus in North Andover, music by the Merrimack College chorale and refreshments in the church auditorium.

Admission to all events is free.

"We are grateful to BayBank Merrimack Valley for its support of our Christmas tree lighting program," Fr. Deegan said. "Our annual tree lighting and concert are the college's Christmas gift to our neighbors and friends in the Merrimack Valley. We especially hope that families with children will join us for this joy-filled beginning of the Christmas season."

The Pilgrims did not name Plymouth. Capt. John Smith explored the New England coast in 1614 and gave his map to Prince Charles (who became King Charles). Charles put English names on the map, such as Plymouth and the Charles River.

Lobsters, clams and mussels were considered "hard rations" when the food supply was scarce. Many Pilgrims thought lobsters were fit only for pigs.

Business Expo Set For April

A Greater Lawrence Business-to-Business Exposition, sponsored by the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce and GOAL (Growth Opportunities Alliance), will be held at the Sheraton Rolling Green in Andover on April 1 and 2. Lawrence R. Smith, executive vice president of the chamber, announced that the two-day Business Exposition and Suppliers' Institute will offer booth space for 73 area manufacturers, suppliers, sub-contractors and service firms to enable small and large businesses to display their products and services to other business people.

Smith stated that one of the major goals will be the promotion of doing business locally. Ten major companies will be invited to make presentations about how they contract with small business to supply parts and services. Presentations will also be made by GOAL on how to reduce costs through programs that cut waste and improve quality. GOAL and the chamber plan to start a Suppliers' Institute after the April Business Expo to offer on-going support for small businesses who want to learn the technical aspects of supplier qualification and certification procedures and quality control methods.

Smith said that invitations will be mailed to area business firms within the next two weeks asking them to reserve booth space at the Expo. Hundreds of business executives and owners, quality control experts, purchasing agents, personnel people and other business representatives will be invited to attend. Expo times will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. Two to three thousand business people are expected to attend.

More information can be obtained by calling the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce.

Antifreeze

Antifreeze is a year-round fluid, able to protect the car's cooling system from freezing in winter, boiling over in summer and corroding prematurely.

AAA Merrimack Valley reminds motorists that antifreeze must be diluted with water before it can be used. Straight antifreeze actually turns to slush at low temperatures.

Breakthrough snowthrower.

At Toro, we've engineered a snowthrowing breakthrough that just might change the way you look at winter.

It's called the CCR-2000. And it throws snow like no other snowthrower. First, the lightweight, but powerful CCR-2000 throws wet, heavy snow up to 30 feet. Second, the CCR-2000's 220 degree adjustable chute allows you to put snow just about anywhere you want it. And third, the CCR-2000's innovative curved rotor cuts through 12 inches of snow or more with ease.

If that wasn't enough, the CCR-2000 also has all those Toro standard qualities you're used to. Like quick-starting even in the coldest weather, easy maneuverability, and, of course, value.

But don't take our word for it. Stop in and see the new CCR-2000 at your nearest Toro dealer. And breakthrough the snow this winter like never before.

There were only four married women who survived the first harsh winter (1620-1621). (Of 102 Pilgrims, about 50 died during that first winter.) The four, Elizabeth Hopkins, Eleanor Billington, Susannah White Winslow and Mary Brewster, oversaw the food preparations for the three-day harvest feast for the 50 colonists and Massasoit and his 90 Indian men, the feast that became known as "the first Thanksgiving."

Low Cost Service

Secretary of Elder Affairs Richard H. Rowland has alerted elders to a telephone service called measured service. "Through measured service, elders are allowed 30 message units each month on direct-dial calls within local calling areas. This service will cost $3.25 per month, plus a $1 access charge and any additional message units will cost 10 cents each. Each message unit is based on an initial period of five minutes. If you speak with someone more than five minutes, you will be charged one message unit for each additional five minutes or a fraction thereof. Also, toll rates apply to people with measured service who call outside their local calling area. The service allows an unlimited number of incoming calls," he said.

New England Telephone has applied to the Department of Public Utilities to extend measured service to all areas of the Commonwealth, possibly by the end of the next year.

The joint state-federal board of the Federal Communications Commission has recommended that states be allowed to waive the one dollar monthly access charge for low income persons, which is scheduled to increase to $2 per month in June 1986. The total cost of measured service will then increase to $5.25 per month.

The executive office of Elder Affairs has filed legislation to prohibit the one dollar access charge on telephone service for low income and handicapped elders in the Commonwealth. This legislation will also prohibit the cancellation of telephone of such people for refusal to pay the access charge.

IRS Workshops

The Internal Revenue Service is sponsoring free tax workshops for new or recently established small business owners in the greater Salem, N.H., area, beginning Friday, Dec. 13.

There will be practical exercises designed to teach small business owners how to determine taxable income and how to fill in required tax forms. A question-and-answer session will also be held.

Instructors are IRS tax specialists who will also cover such topics as equipment depreciation, employer tax responsibilities and the advantages and disadvantages of sole proprietorships, partnerships and corporations.

New Law

Philip G. Coates, director of the Massachusetts division of Marine Fisheries, announced the passage of a new bill that will help in preventing the unauthorized sale of seafood by unlicensed fishermen.

The legislation states that is against the law for any seafood dealer to purchase raw fish or shellfish from any person who does not hold a valid commercial fishermen permit or wholesale dealer permit issued by the division.

It is presently against the law for unlicensed individuals to sell seafood and for licensed fishermen to sell seafood to anyone except a licensed dealer.

Kitchen Design
by David A. Clement, Designer
THE CONTEMPORARY KITCHEN

A contemporary kitchen is a natural place for today's most exciting new materials. Loosely defined "contemporary" means "of the present time." The true beauty of contemporary design, however, is that it is timeless. This enduring style goes from decade to decade without dating itself as less-classic looks and styles might. The reason for the ageless beauty of contemporary styling is simplicity. In its classic beauty, a kitchen featuring this understated, carefully executed style is like a Japanese flower arrangement. It never has more than a few absolutely perfect blooms. Contemporary is restrained, simple, flawless in detail and arrangement, with a beauty that goes well beyond "of the present time."

Whether you prefer contemporary styles or more traditional ones you'll find exactly what you're looking for at WINDSOR KITCHENS. We know what today's shopper wants in cabinetry and we carry it in the way of sleek European to gracious traditional or colonial cabinets. We give you quality products, professional service and our individual attention to your every need. Come in to our showroom at 1181 Boston Rd. Ward Hill, Mass. Food Safety For The Holidays

Thanksgiving starts a six-week round of holiday activities. To help keep the holidays happy and healthy, the Massachusetts Department of Public Health's (DPH) Division of Food and Drugs cautions consumers to minimize food poisoning risks by following safe food preparation methods.

State Food and Drug Director Nancy Ridley said, "Based on tests performed at the State Laboratory in Jamaica Plain, we estimate that as many as 80,000 people in Massachusetts experience a foodborne illness in any given year. National figures suggest that about 25 percent of these illnesses can be traced to food prepared in the home.

"Over the next few weeks, many people throughout the state will host or attend parties and get-togethers for family, friends and co-workers. In many instances, people will prepare and serve perishable foods, such as meat, poultry and dairy products, and bacteria can multiply quickly in these foods which are high in protein and moisture.

"While a bout of food poisoning is not generally life-threatening, it can be quite unpleasant," explained Ridley. "No one wants to give his or her guests a case of food poisoning for the holidays." Symptoms of food poisoning include nausea, diarrhea, stomach cramps, fever and headache.

When preparing potentially hazardous foods for holiday parties, DPH recommends the following safeguards:

Thaw frozen poultry and meat in the refrigerator or under cool running water, not at room temperature.

Keep raw ingredients cold until you are ready to begin food preparation.

Wash hands thoroughly with warm water and soap before beginning to prepare food for the oven and after any interruptions in the preparation process.

Avoid handling raw foods and cooked foods at the same time and wash hands when alternating between cooked and uncooked food.

Rinse poultry and meat in clean water and scrub vegetables before preparing.

Keep food covered except during preparation and service.

Cook food as closely to the anticipated serving time as possible.

Stuff poultry and meats just prior to cooking.

Cook meats, poultry and stuffing thoroughly using a meat thermometer inserted well into the food to determine when it is done. DPH recommends cooking the following popular main course items to the interior temperatures listed: poultry (stuffed and not stuffed), stuffed meats and meat stuffings, 165°; pork, 150°; roast beef, 140°; roast beef (rare), 130°.

If you must keep foods warm, hold them at 140°F or above.

If serving time is several hours away, put cooked foods in shallow pans or oven-roof serving dishes and transfer them directly to the refrigerator for quick cooling.

Reheat cooled foods quickly and thoroughly just before serving.

When transporting food over long distance, keep them cold while enroute and refrigerate them promptly upon arrival.

Replenish platters frequently when serving food buffet-style instead of putting all the food out at once to minimize the length of time food sits at room temperature.

Project Ahead Of Schedule

Melvin G. Lezberg, president of Boott Hydropower, Inc., has announced the early start-up of its 15 megawatt Eldred L. Field hydroelectric powerhouse on the Merrimack River in Lowell one month ahead of schedule and within the targeted budget of more than $24 million.

Walsh Construction Company, Krum-bull, Conn., prime contractor for the low-head hydropower project, brought the powerhouse on-stream earlier this month despite setbacks last year due to flooding of the Merrimack. Located in the heart of the National Park Service's Lowell Historical Park, the new powerhouse is generating 15 megawatts of power into Massachusetts' main power grid under a 40-year contract with Commonwealth Electric Company, Wareham.

An additional 7.9 megawatts of power will be supplied to Commonwealth by four existing powerhouses built at the turn of the century as autonomous power sources for local businesses. Their power will be tied together using submarine cables to bring total capacity of Boott Mills' system to 22.9 megawatts.

"Construction of the Eldred L. Field Hydroelectric Project is essentially complete," said Lezberg. "All that remains to be done is integration of two of the four smaller power units."

Began in September 1983, the Eldred L. Field Hydroelectric Project was carefully designed to blend in with its historical surroundings. The new, two-level powerhouse with twin horizontal tubular turbines is situated on the Northern Canal, one of a series of canals in Lowell constructed between 1792 and 1848 to harness the Merrimack's power for local industries. During the mid-1800s, these canals provided power to some 30 textile mills, which led to Lowell's designation as birthplace of America's industrial revolution.

Walsh's guaranteed maximum price contract also included reconstruction and repair of the canal and nearby walls, excavation of the canal wall and bank rock for the powerhouse forebay, erection of a 26-foot high concrete gravity dam and lock to divert water flow to the forebay and installation of a fish ladder around the powerhouse.

Walsh Construction Company, a division of Guy F. Atkinson Company, undertakes general contracting and construction management projects for major U.S. corporations, utilities and government agencies. Recent projects the company has built or managed include facilities for fossil-fuel and alternative energy power generating, light manufacturing, research and development, health care, corporate headquarters and commercial buildings.

Boott Hydropower, Inc., is a subsidiary of Proprietors of the Locks and Canals on Merrimack, a corporation formed in 1792 by prominent New England businessmen to create a navigable channel to bypass Pawtucket Falls on the Merrimack River in Lowell. The newly completed powerhouse represents a significant increase in Boott Hydropower's electrical capacity and expands its services beyond the immediate Lowell area for the first time.

"Paying attention to how long and at what temperature foods are held before they are eaten is very important," said Ridley. "Over 60 percent of the illnesses traced to food are caused by inadequate refrigeration or slow cooling."

"Even though thorough cooking destroys organisms that can cause people to become ill, food can be recontaminated after cooking," she added. "If that food is held at room temperature too long, or if it is cooled too slowly, these disease-causing organisms have time to multiply. In some cases, the organisms produce toxins. While reheating may destroy the toxin-producing organism, it will not affect the toxin which remains behind to make people ill."

The Department of Public Health's Division of Food and Drugs works with federal and local health officials to assure a safe and wholesome food supply for the

A whole new route for kids to take to college.

Introducing The Boston Globe's Paper Route to College $5,000 Scholarship Program.

With tuition prices going up more and more every year, the prospect of sending kids to college is getting worse every day.

That's why The Boston Globe has just developed The Paper Route to College Scholarship Program.

We're asking kids ages 12 and older to give us three consecutive years of delivering The Globe. And in turn we're giving them up to $5,000 toward one-year's tuition at an accredited school or college.

They'll also earn lots of other incentives along the way. Things like money for the papers they deliver, probably tips during the holidays, a radio, a trip to Disney World, a bike.

If you, or someone you know, would be interested, simply send in the coupon below for more information. We'll get a question and answer booklet out to you as soon as possible.

And before you know it your kids will be on a whole new route to college. The Paper Route to College From The Boston Globe.

Crime Prevention Topic Of Chamber Seminar

The Andover Police Department, under the direction of Chief James F. Johnson, co-sponsored a seminar with the Andover Chamber Association on Crime Prevention.

A large delegation of store owners, clerks, bank personnel and managers attended the conference on Wednesday, Nov. 20.

The purpose of the seminar was to educate bankers and store personnel of the techniques used by youthful shoplifters, well dressed, bad check passers or the middle age, stolen-credit-card user.

As this holiday season is one of heavy shopping and spending, it is more conducive to out-of-town con-artists. Andover businessmen were alerted to watch for particular methods of crime that will be helpful in outwitting some of them at their own game.

Patrolman Joseph Ouellette showed a 15-minute film, "Paper Money." This was followed by a discussion, led by Sgt. John P. Houlihan, of different aspects of crime, such as shoplifting, credit card abuse, fraudulent checks, etc.

Printed materials were also distributed as a continuation of the crime prevention program. Randall L. Hanson, chairman of the Center Association, is available for discussion of this subject to the members who could not attend.

There are 42 gallons of oil in a barrel.

Exhibit

"Stephen Parrish," a special exhibition of drawings and etchings by Stephen Parrish (1846-1938), continues at the Cape Ann Historical Association, 27 Pleasant St., Gloucester, through January 31.

After working in the family coal business in Pennsylvania, Parrish turned his attention to painting and shortly thereafter to the art of etching. His work on paper contributed significantly to the flourishing of American etching during the 1870s and 1880s. He returned to Cape Ann regularly throughout the 1880s and 1890s where he produced 42 etchings, 24 of which the Cape Ann Historical Association owns and is exhibiting. The works focus on Gloucester's active waterfront and fishing fleet and include picturesque views of nearby Eastern Point and Annisquam.

The exhibit also includes William Morris Hunt's 1877 oil painting, "Gloucester Harbor," from which Parrish produced an identical etched view. The painting is on loan from the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

Each morning the children are taught one aspect of the Christmas story. They learn songs and make crafts that reinforce the theme for the day.

The Christmas school concludes on Friday with a worship service for parents and friends. The children participate in a reenactment of the nativity with music provided by children in the angel choir.

To register, call Mrs. Douglas G. Chapin, 21 Lucerne Drive, Andover.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

The senior center will be open Friday, the day after Thanksgiving, and there will be Bingo in the afternoon. There will be no lunch, however, since the schools are closed. But, you will be welcome to drop in, visit, have a cup of coffee, etc. There is also no hot lunch today, Wednesday. Lunch will resume Monday. You must call by 4 p.m. Friday to reserve a place. Lunch is still only 50 cents. Try it, you'll like it. Good food and pleasant people to eat it with.

Remember, tickets to the Elk Christmas parties will be distributed at 10 a.m. Monday, Dec. 2, on a first-come, first-served basis. This event is always extremely popular and tickets go quickly. You may get a ticket for yourself and your spouse, but not for a neighbor or friend. They must get their own.

The center will have its Christmas feasts on December 18 with roast beef and all sorts of other goodies. There will be music and dancing and a happy time for all. But you must get your ticket now. They cost $1 each.

The Haven Associates will hold their members' Christmas party on Thursday, Dec. 19, at 2 p.m.

The annual holiday fair will be held at the center on December 6 and 7 with lots of baked goods, gift items, decorations and a cafe to have a bite to eat. There are still some craft tables available to Andover residents who might wish to display and sell their crafts. Tables cost $15. Call Dorothy Winn at 470-3830 for further information. But, even if you do not want a table, you could make a note of the dates and do some of your holiday shopping and thereby help the senior center activities program. Hours Friday are from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The next mini-clinic will be held Tuesday, Dec. 3, at the senior center. Appointments for this free service may be made by calling the health department (470-3800, ext. 255).

Every Wednesday from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. there is a blood pressure clinic at the senior center. No appointment is necessary. Just come. The blood pressure clinic and the mini-clinic are staffed by Andover's public health nurses, who are knowledgeable, patient and caring.

Everyone on the staff of the senior center extends best wishes for a happy Thanksgiving and we all list the senior center as one of the things we are grateful for.

The American Thanksgiving: The Evolution Of A Tradition

Thanksgiving—that most distinctly American of our holiday traditions, the word alone evokes images of football, family reunions, roast turkey, pumpkin pie and, of course, the Pilgrims.

But was it always thus? Not by a long shot.

Today's Thanksgiving celebration is a blend of three earlier traditions: the New England custom of rejoicing after a successful harvest, based on ancient English harvest festivals; solemn religious observances combining prayer and feasting, which could be proclaimed at any time of year; and finally, the commemoration of the Pilgrims' landing known as Forefathers' Day. How these three events merged is the story of the evolution of modern Thanksgiving.

In 1621, when their labors were rewarded with a bountiful harvest after a year of sickness and scarcity, the Pilgrims gave thanks to God and celebrated His bounty in the Harvest Home tradition in which they had been nurtured. To these people of strong Christian faith, it was a joyous outpouring of gratitude.

In a letter from E.W. (Edward Winslow) to a friend in England: "And God be praised, we had a good increase. . . Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men on fowling so that we might after a special manner rejoice together. . ." In the same letter: "These things I thought good to let you understand. . . that you might on our behalf give God thanks who hath dealt so favourable with us."

While the Pilgrims were reverent before God, they were neither draped in black nor somber and sad as some have portrayed them. Their secular celebrations included feasting, rustic sports and entertainment. To the Puritans of early New England, a true "Thanksgiving" was properly a day of prayer and pious humiliation, thanking God for His Providence or for some auspicious event. This was the sort of solemn event intended when a Thanksgiving Day was declared by a colonial council or the early Federal government.

The first national Thanksgiving was proclaimed by the Continental Congress in 1777. It specifically recommended "... that servile labor and such recreations as, though at other times, innocent, may be unbecoming the purpose of this appointment, be omitted on so solemn an occasion." National Thanksgivings were proclaimed by Presidents Washington, Adams and Monroe, but the custom fell out of use after 1815. Mrs. Sara Josepha Hale, a writer for and later editor of "Godey's Lady's Book," began a campaign in 1827 to reinstate the holiday by petitioning several succeeding presidents to make it an annual event.

The first familiar Thanksgiving proclamations did not come until 1863, when President Lincoln declared two thanksgivings, one for Thursday, Aug. 6, and a second for the last Thursday in November. From that time on, some Thursday in autumn was annually declared a national Thanksgiving day by every Presi-

Down The Years

The Andover Housing Authority announced today that a house-to-house survey of the redevelopment project area will begin Monday, Nov. 28.

Town Manager Thomas E. Duff, even in the early stages of preparing the 1986 town budget, feels the tax rate might be kept at $26.

A special assembly is being held to dedicate the Andover High School auditorium to Benjamin H. Punchard. 10 Years Ago — November 1975

Its back to negotiating table for members of the Dept. of Public Works employees and town administrators following receipt of the fact finder's report this past week. Negotiations between the town and representatives of the state, county and municipal employees union representatives for the D.P.W. workers have been going on for a year.

On Nov. 26, a group of fifth graders from Unit C of the Shawsheen School presented a short play, "The Thanksgiving Riddle," for other members of Unit C.

While it is generally known to the rest of Andover that Shawsheen Village is the product of the vision of one man, William Wood of the American Woolen Company, a number of Shawsheen residents are dedicated to obtaining the national recognition this experiment in planned communities so justly merits.

Andover's Water Treatment Plant has won awards in a nationwide design contest.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin, has received budget requests from department heads for the coming fiscal year.

Thanksgiving

dent, with Lincoln's choice of the last Thursday in November eventually becoming the traditional date.

Interest in the Pilgrims as historic figures began shortly before the Revolution. The Old Colony Club was founded in Plymouth in 1769 and had instituted an annual speech and dinner in December, Forefathers' Day, to mark the anniversary of the Pilgrims' landing. Thereafter, Forefathers' Day was celebrated regularly in Plymouth and in Boston and New York.

The popularity of Forefathers' Day began to fade about mid-century as the importance of Thanksgiving grew. After 1890, representations of the Pilgrims began to reflect a shift of interest to the 1621 harvest celebration. What we now call the "First Thanksgiving" came to symbolize the union of prosperity and brotherhood.

Thus, Thanksgiving and the Pilgrims have become synonymous. Except in Plymouth where it originated, their original commemoration, Forefathers Day, passes unnoticed each December 21. They are remembered instead as the symbol of Thanksgiving.

Cable TV

because it had not yet set up complete service. For the fiscal years 1985 and 1986, Rollins received a full assessment. Russell estimated that, counting revenues already paid and those assessed for 1986, Andover could lose a total of $80,000 to $90,000 because of the court decision.

Although it knew that case was pending, the state Department of Revenue advised towns to collect the taxes in question, said Russell. "We knew that the case was pending; but we knew that, if we didn't tax and if it came out favorable to the communities, we'd have lost that tax revenue," he said. He added that the Department of Revenue's legal department is now studying the ruling and will be forwarding its interpretation of the legal situation to Massachusetts towns. "Once we receive that," said Russell, "We'll take whatever action they feel is necessary."

Rollins Cable Vision of Northern Massachusetts, the cable T.V. company serving Andover, is also waiting before it acts, according to general manager Judith Dowd. Acknowledging that Rollins has filed to recover its paid revenues, Dowd explained that company lawyers will be studying the Supreme Court's decision, and that it might be "up to a year" before they can be sure of its impact on local companies. "We want to wait and see what happens," she said. "Taking a more conservative position, we would prefer not to make a statement yet on how it will affect us."

was just a freak thing that happened," she explains. A frustrating freak thing, one which held up publication until more than a year after she had finished the book.

The third printing came out well; the books arrived ready to be sold. Or almost. One of the book's central devices, a magic piece of red sea glass through which the "Granny" sees the past, had to be omitted from the printing because the addition of a color would have been prohibitively expensive. "It would have cost $15,000 to have the printer add red," Sanborn says. So she herself added the touch of color. "I bought up all those metallic valentine hearts—the red, shiny paper ones—that I could find in the stores on the island. I cut them into pieces, then I glued them into the book myself," she says.

Each book required two pieces; there were 2,400 books.

Sanborn has finally finished her gluing; now, she's wrapping the books for delivery. Although they can be found at Limited Editions, and at a store on the island, most of the copies will be sold by mail order. It almost goes without saying that she will send the books out herself.

Since writing "The Magic Seaglass," the Granny on Martha's Vineyard finds she has little time to dance to her beloved Reggae. She has her sequel in the works, and she and a local artist are collaborating on a children's book about a sea serpent—with luck, it should be out in August of next year.

And, of course, she is still collecting the future's history. It has become a habit. Check out local events on the island; you might see her in her caftan, getting it all down. On videotape, mind you—this is a high-tech Granny. "Everything I look at now, I look at with a sense of history," says Constance Fuller Sanborn. "Video camera; tape recorders—it's all part of the same thing, preserving the past."

"The Magic Sea Glass of West Chop" can be ordered through Constance F. Sanborn, Box 357, Vineyard Haven, Ma. 02568. The hard cover edition, a limited edition that is numbered and signed, costs $22.50; soft cover costs $12.50. Rolling Green Service Center: Cold Weather Insurance

Old Man Winter is lurking beside the highway, just waiting for your car.

He's a crafty one, with a perverse sense of humor; he'd just as soon freeze your radiator as look at you. And he delights in strewn your path with ice, snow and sleet—just to watch your tired tires lose their grip.

Can no one save your car from the Old Man's clutches?

Have no fear; the Rolling Green Service Station, at 309 Lowell St. in Andover, is at the ready. Brendan Foster's crack service team can cover your set of wheels with Cold Weather Insurance—tune up the engine; winterize the cooling system; get your oil and lubrication in step with the season. Rolling Green can slip your car's "feet" into snow tires—your own, or brand new winter road-grabbers.

When everything's winter-worthy, Rolling Green can grant you that inspection sticker. And fill your tank with quality Mobil gas. "We provide all-around service," says Foster. "Gas, road service, towing and expert automotive repair."

Foster has 15 years of car winterizing on his resume. He also has a great deal of confidence in his staff. "We have friendly, courteous, very well-trained people working for us," he says. "Our customers get their money's worth from us."

Rolling Green Service Center is located where the action is, right near the junction of Routes 495 and 93. Because winter doesn't stop at sundown, you'll find the station open late, seven days a week: 6 a.m.-12 midnight M-F; 7 a.m.-10 p.m. Sat; 9 a.m.-10 p.m. Sun. And if you find yourself stranded in the elements, Rolling Green has 24-hour AAA and ALA-affiliated towing.

It pays to get your rolling stock into Rolling Green for Cold Weather Insurance—before Old Man Winter strikes. Call 475-5558 for information, free repair estimates, or road service.

Lee Dodd Realty: Professionalism, with a Personal Touch

Lee Dodd Realty has served Andover with both professionalism and a personal touch for more than 25 years. Two years ago, Lee Dodd Realty was purchased by Foster and Foster Realtors, the largest independently-owned full service real estate company in Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire.

Foster and Foster, a member of 11 Multiple Listing Services with 400 sales associates in 17 communities, has been chosen by Homequity/Homerica, the nation's number one homeseller, to represent them exclusively in this area. The company is also a member of FIABCI, an international Referral Network of Real Estate Brokers. Foster & Foster also offers services such as in-house financing, mortgage counceling, an in-house computer system, equity loans, vacant home insurance for listing clients, and a full-service rental department.

Lee Dodd, the local firm's former proprietor, recently served as Dean of Course II of the prestigious Realtor's Institute, a program of both the Massachusetts and National Association of Realtors. She will serve as Dean of Course III in May, 1986. Dodd is a past director of the New England Chapter of Certified Real Estate Brokerage Managers and a past 2nd vice president of the Greater Lawrence Board of Realtors; she has served as a Director of that Board for six years. She currently serves on the Professional Standards Committee.

Recently, Lee Dodd appointed

Anita Hill as Sales Manager of the Andover office. Hill, former Assistant Manager of Foster & Foster's Chelmsford office, has been with the company for 10 years and in real estate for 16 and is a member of the Broker's Council and a pre-licensing training program teacher. Dodd will continue working with the firm as a broker, serving her clients in the capacity which she most enjoys and in which she excels.

Foster and Foster's innovation and expanded services, combined with Lee Dodd's local market knowledge, have brought Andover an unprecedented high level of service in the field of residential brokerage. To take advantage of the combination, visit the office at 68 Park St. or call 475-8543.

PART-TIME SEASONAL DATA TRANSCRIBERS

Let the IRS Pay You It's As Easy As 1-2-3!

With all the extra expenses winter brings (Christmas bills, ski vacations, college tuition?), it's hard to afford too much free time. But now you can turn 24 or 30 of those hours each week into dollars with the IRS during our busy tax filing season. Our Andover Service Center, at Routes 93 and 133, is hiring part-time seasonal Data Transcribers for immediate and future openings—jobs that pay well and require no experience. Here's all you have to do:

1. Pass a very basic Civil Service Data Transcriber Test
2. Complete our 40-hour paid Data Training Program
3. Choose your schedule:
Monday-Friday, 6 PM to 12:30 AM;
Sunday-Tuesday, 4:30 PM to 1 AM;
Wednesday-Friday, 4:30 PM to 1 AM.

You'll earn $5.49 per hour plus 10% night differential after 6 PM and incentive pay based on performance (half of our data employees get incentive pay every payday).

APPLY NOW: Early applicants will have the best opportunity for selection of available shifts.

Part-time opportunities for Tax Clerks and Clerks are also available.

The IRS's Andover Service Center also offers generous benefits, including sick leave, paid holidays and free parking.

Start earning money for those winter bills by signing up today. For more information, call us collect at (617) 681-5627. Or come to the Andover Service Center any Thursday by 6 PM sharp for the Civil Service Test. No appointment is necessary!

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

By Beverly Kimball G.R.I.
Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

WHEN YOUR BUYER HAS A HOME TO SELL

Prospective buyers often have homes they must sell in order to purchase a new home. Sellers, on the other hand, may be reluctant to accept any offer that is contingent on the sale of another property. If you receive such an offer and if it is satisfactory in all other areas, there are ways to structure the sale that can minimize the seller's risks.

First, you might put a limit on the amount of time the buyers have to accept an offer on their property. You can also keep your home on the market. If a second offer comes in, you may be able to reserve the right to withdraw the first conditional offer unless the contingencies can be removed within 48 to 72 hours.

Many sales that start out as contingent offers work well for the sellers. Your purchaser is not going to be in the best bargaining position and is less likely to ask for concessions on price or other terms. Each situation is different, however, and before you accept a contingent offer, you should go over the pros and cons of the particular situation with your realtor.

The professionals at Realty USA, Schruender Real Estate can guide you through each step of the home buying or selling process. Please visit our offices at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover, or give us a call at 685-5000.

WHY CONDO FEES VARY

When prospective condominium buyers come to us for help, they all seem to have the same perplexing dilemma. They wonder why the monthly condominium charges vary so much from complex to complex within the same price range. How can such a buyer determine what is a fair amount and what isn't?

There are many reasons why monthly condo fees vary widely. Some fees include insurance and property taxes and others don't. Some fee schedules are prepared by professionals and contain adequate reserves for maintenance, improvements and replacement. Unfortunately, other fee schedules are sometimes drafted by optimistic individuals who are more interested in selling unsold inventory than in managing accurately and efficiently.

If your purchase is handled by a full-time residential agent, you will be gaining a larger degree of buyer protection. Be safe. When you look over the budget and the fee schedule, have a professional at your side to protect your interests.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Pynchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Satellite Dish Requests Cause Some Local Concern

Recent petitions by private citizens for the installation of satellite receiving dishes to receive video programming has caused town officials to consider the regulations regarding their installation.

"This is an issue that has grabbed the attention of officials nation-wide," Nancy Jeton, principal planner in the town's office of Community Development and Planning, said.

Decisions that have been made in appeals to the Supreme Court have been based on the constitutional right of free speech, according to Jeton.

"Massachusetts regulations regarding aesthetics, regulating size and protecting people's views, do not help us much," Jeton said.

The question of the town voting on a special bylaw regulating the satellite dishes is not recommended by Jeton.

"The town is faced with a lot more important issues to vote on. We are serviced by Rollins Cablevision and that is cheaper and easier than installing a satellite dish."

Rapid technology that will eventually make the size of the dishes smaller and smaller is foreseen by Jeton.

"They seem to be appearing in rural situations. We have more of an urban situation and have had the good fortune to keep most of the dishes away," Jeton said. "Most of the residents in the town are concerned with property values and would not want to install satellite dishes. Most of the individuals who want to install the receiving dishes have special interests that cannot be met by the local cable service."

Essex St. Building Demolished

A wrecking ball swung to crumble the shingles of what was once a blacksmith shop and more recently the home of Hewitt Real Estate on 40 Essex St.

The 12-room house was built by John B. MacInnis in 1855. In 1888, it was the home of Martha Millet.

The Greek revival style structure was not entered into the National Historic Register because it was not in keeping with the historic period of the time, according to Peggy Hughes, assistant to the director of the Andover Historical Society.

The two-family home with realty offices on the ground floor and living quarters for the Hewitt's upstairs, was sold by John Hewitt, one-year ago, to Donald Richmond, Richmond Properties, 52

Main St. It may be the site of a proposed apartment or business complex or in-town motel, according to Hewitt.

Hewitt Realty Co., is now located at 3

Main St., over Macartney's clothing store.
